Supporting a culture shift

AIG's Auckland office was the first in the world to be opened under the new name and brand – so it had to be a world-class workplace. A key driver for AIG was a shift in culture and work styles and STACK's varied workplace settings encourage this desired collaboration. Specific thought was given to colour, flexible workspace design and break out areas to support the new culture. Additionally, outstanding views to all points of the compass are enjoyed by staff and visitors.
