STACK

Celebrating history and character

The Commission for Financial Literacy saw an opportunity to design an office which really took advantage of the historic character building it would occupy. The Commission wanted an open and flexible workplace that would encourage their staff and clients to interact in many different ways. STACK's design complements and works in harmony with the base building's character. Yet it is also a modern and functional workplace. Materials and furnishings focus on recycled and re-energised elements to celebrate history and character.
