Delivering a 'one company' feel

Wherescape wanted a workplace that allowed them to embrace the 'fun' nature of their team, bring together their staff into a 'one company' feel, and also provide a professional environment for their corporate clients. STACK utilised the semi-industrial space by installing an upper level mezzanine, creating double height spaces. A central staircase links the two levels while a café space opens to the outdoors. The new space brings together staff, creating a more social, interactive environment and a 'one company' feel.
