Total transformation to a tight deadline

Even with a tight project deadline of just 10 months for the build, 68 Sales Street underwent a complete transformation into a stylish inner-city complex. Uniquely, it has two street frontages, plus a basement level — now the new home of a bar / restaurant. A truly mixed-use building, it includes ground level car parking with two levels of office space above. To deliver the client's wish for a raw, industrial design, the building was stripped back, with exposed ceilings and concrete polished floors.
