Reflecting a natural, organic ethos through design

Street Organics second café (and the first one outside Australia) in Takapuna, Auckland is a light and natural-feeling space, with an edgy feel. Exposed concrete elements sit alongside sustainable timber joinery and furniture in a well-planned space that allows for many exciting future opportunities, from cooking classes to coffee ordering apps. Technology blends with green elements (like a living wall) to create a unique space that supports working, meeting and simply enjoying.
