Flexibility, Collaboration and Kotahitanga (Oneness)

Z Energy's new Auckland head office truly reflects their status as one of New Zealand's most innovative and forward thinking organisations. Throughout the space the most important consideration is flexibility, with a design that delivers on Z Energy's brand vision and the company's passion for nurturing people, community and creativity.

The final result is a series of spaces that people love to work in, designed for a range of activity from quiet focused individual work through to collaboration to social. The shared spaces have uniquely "Kiwi" descriptions such as The Refinery, The Deck (a flexi workspace in the sun) and even a BBQ, for Friday night team sessions.

Overall the space brings Z Energy together into one location that delivers real time communication, efficiency and an all-embracing sense of 'oneness' within a unique and enjoyable company culture.
